The Federal Energy Bar Association is a non-profit corporation interested in the development of federal energy law. Founded in 1946 as the Federal Power Bar Association, the Association currently has approximately 1,700 members. Included in the membership are government, corporate and private attorneys in virtually all areas of federal energy practice. The objective of the Association is "to promote the proper administration of the federal laws relating to the production, development, conservation, transmission and economic regulation of energy." In addition to publishing the Energy Law Journal, the Association organizes and sponsors a number of activities, including a continuing legal education program during November of each year, as well as a program held in conjunction with the annual meeting each May which focuses on issues of current interest. The Association also sponsors a number of committees which monitor and report to the membership developments of interest. Complete membership and subscription information can be obtained from the Association at 1350 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., Suite 300, Washington, D.C. 20036 or by calling (202) 223-5625.

The Energy Law Journal is published two times a year. Articles by members and non-members of the Association are welcome. All manuscripts should be of substantial length, not previously published, deal with aspects of federal energy law and follow A Uniform System of Citation. A brief biographical statement should be included. All manuscripts should be sent to William A. Mogel, Editor-in-Chief, Energy Law Journal, 1225 Eye St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005. Only manuscripts submitted exclusively to the Energy Law Journal will be considered for publication. The opinions expressed in the published material are those of the writers and are not intended as expressions of views of the Federal Energy Bar Association. Inquiries about advertising in the Energy Law Journal should be addressed to Mr. Miller at (202) 296-2960. The Energy Law Journal is indexed in the INDEX TO LEGAL PERIODICALS, the CURRENT LAW INDEX, WESTLAW and LEXIS services.

EDITOR'S PAGE

The Journal has reached its majority! With this issue, we embark on our 18th year of publication.

During the past year, the Foundation of the Energy Law Journal's Board and our Bar Association's Board have spent significant time and committed both tangible and intangible resources in strengthening the relationship with the law students at the University of Tulsa. The purpose is simple: produce a better Journal.

As I often have written, the Journal has become a publication of record that is cited by courts, agencies, and practitioners. However, it took until February 18, 1997, for the Supreme Court to cite a Journal article in General Motors v. Tracy. As Editor and co-author of the article, I am doubly pleased by this milestone.

The most visible change in the Journal is the absence of the Cumulative Index. Given the Journal's inclusion in Westlaw and Lexis, as well as the desire to hold the line on expenses, the Index will no longer be published.

The In Memoriam page recognizes the exemplary lives and careers of two men — Brad Ross and Walter Gallagher — both of whom made a difference as energy law practitioners.

Finally, a word of thanks. Last May, the Bar Association presented me, in the presence of my family, a Certificate of Distinguished Service. I am honored to be recognized for my efforts on behalf of the Journal, but it has been a labor of love.

IN MEMORIAM

Bradford Ross, a President of our Bar Association and former General Counsel of the Federal Power Commission from 1946 to 1953, passed away on February 5, 1997, at the age of 84.

The son of two Wyoming governors, he came to Washington in the 1930's when his mother joined the Roosevelt administration as Director of the Mint. He graduated from the University of Virginia and George Washington University Law School. Brad returned to his native Wyoming in 1939. A Democrat like his parents, he practiced in Cheyenne before winning an election to the Wyoming legislature in 1941. During World War II, he served with the Army Judge Advocate General's Office in Washington. Upon leaving the Federal Power Commission in 1953, Brad was one of the founders of the law firm, Ross, Marsh & Foster. He was its senior partner until his retirement from active practice in 1983.

Universally liked and admired, Brad was generous in spirit, loyal in friendship, and proud of his roots in the West.

* * *

Walter E. Gallagher, a member of the Federal Energy Bar Association and its predecessor, the Federal Power Bar Association, died in Washington, D.C. on November 21, 1996.

Walter was born in New Haven, Connecticut in 1910 and was a graduate of Georgetown University (1931) and its Law School (1934). He was a Special Assistant to the Attorney General of the United States from 1934 to 1939 after which he entered the private practice of law in Washington, D.C. He was a founding partner in the predecessor firm of Gallagher, Boland, & Meiburger.

Walter co-authored, with Vince Roach of Northern Natural Gas Company, the frequently referenced Legislative History of the Natural Gas Act (1938-68).

Walter's love of golf and quick wit will also be long remembered.
