Eversheds Sutherland (US) LLP
Washington, DC

Dan Frank has 25 years' experience guiding electric industry clients in compliance matters before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), the North American Electric Reliability Corporation (NERC), and state public service commissions. He also advises clients on cybersecurity and data protection matters. Dan's clients include electric cooperatives and other electric utilities, transmission companies, energy trading companies, generators, and end-users.

Before FERC, Dan regularly counsels clients on market access requirements, filing and reporting obligations, transmission rate and regulatory matters, transaction approvals, and implementation of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978 (PURPA).

In NERC compliance matters, Dan helps clients respond to audits, prepares delegation agreements, and advises on compliance with NERC's cybersecurity (critical infrastructure protection) and other Reliability Standards.

Dan counsels transmission owners and other market participants on transmission access, pricing, and cost allocation issues. He drafts and negotiates power sales, interconnection, and transmission service agreements, and he advises clients in disputes over power transactions and transmission matters. Dan also assists clients in preparing for and responding to data breaches and other cyber incidents.

Dan is a graduate of the University of Washington in Seattle, WA and The University of Chicago Law School. After law school, he clerked for the Hon. Danny J. Boggs of the US Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit in Louisville, KY. He resides in Arlington, VA with his wife and two sons.
