

Erik Aaboe currently serves as an Energy Transition Specialist for the New Mexico Renewable Energy Transmission Authority. The NM Renewable Energy Transmission Authority acts as a highway for energy, transmission lines provide the opportunity to share these beautiful resources with residents throughout the state of New Mexico and throughout the region. They provide utility companies, and consumers alike, with the power to utilize more renewable energy in their everyday lives.