

Daniel Kline is a licensed professional engineer with leadership experience in transmission project development, regulatory strategy and process, tariff administration, transmission planning, and project leadership ranging geographically from single cities to large multi-state regions with utilities across the country and around the world. He received a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering from Iowa State University and a Master of Engineering from the University of Idaho.