

Natasha Henderson is the Director of System Planning at Southwest Power Pool (SPP). In this role, Henderson directs the development of SPP's Transmission Expansion Plan to effectively and efficiently address future needs, as well as oversees the development of engineering policies to support members, regulators and other departments and to comply with reliability standards and criteria. She joins SPP after a 12 year tenure with Golden Spread Electric (GSEC) where she most recently directed their regulatory and compliance functions for both the SPP and ERCOT markets. Additionally, she has held numerous positions in the SPP stakeholder process participating in and chairing various working groups and committees including the Supply Adequacy Working Group, the Strategic Planning Committee, the Market Operations and Policy Committee and the Economic Studies Working Group.
